

Call for Members: Consortium on Pre-Primary Data and Measurement in Africa

The Consortium on Pre-Primary Data and Measurement in Africa is new initiative funded by USAID to promote movement towards data-driven early childhood systems in sub-Saharan Africa. The Consortium convenes a network of government officials, researchers and other stakeholders interested in pre-primary data and measurement. We emphasize cross-country learning and exploring how we can use data to help improve children's learning in the years before they enter formal schooling.

We are seeking global early childhood partners to join the consortium. Participation in the consortium will entail:

- Joining an email list and submitting details on your expertise and experience to a member database.
- Being available to share information and expertise with other Consortium members.
- Sending along your own research and other important publications to help build a hub for information exchange.
- Optional participation and opportunities for presenting at in-person and virtual Consortium meetings and events.

Benefits to consortium members include:

- Connecting with other researchers and practitioners around topics of data and measurement, including through Consortium activities and bilaterally.
- Regular newsletters and webinars to update members on what is happening in research and in the field.
- Having access to policy makers who are interested in learning from member experience as they pilot new initiatives.

If you would like to join the Consortium, please send an email with brief information about your professional interests and experience (CV, LinkedIn page, bio, etc.) to info@ecdmeasure.org.
